

What does holistic development mean and what does it look like?

The development of the whole child encompassing their social, emotional, spiritual, language, fine motor, gross motor, sensory, cognitive and self help needs.